KALEIDOSCOPE

"And all the voices,
all the goals, all the yearnings,
all the sorrows, all the pleasures,
all the good and evil,
all of them together was the world.
All of them together was the stream of events, the music of life."

Hermann Hesse, Siddhartha

Middlebury College is a community of learning dedicated to an open exchange of knowledge and ideas. We understand the essence of community in practice to reside in the complex and full interaction of individual lives.

"Certainly there is competition present, but there is also commitment, responsibility, cooperation, and caring.
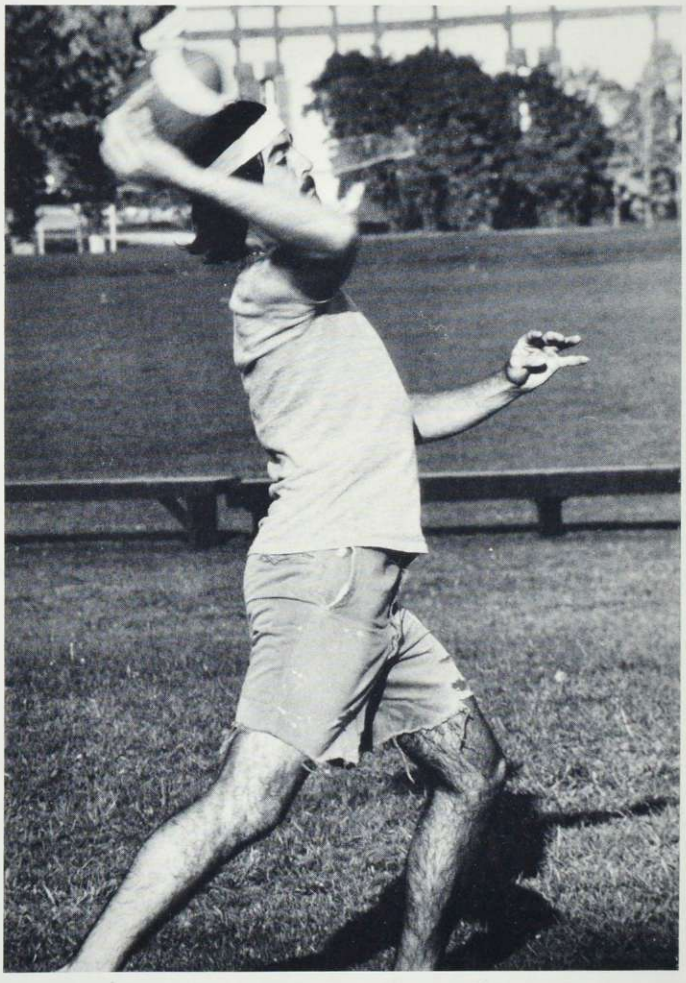
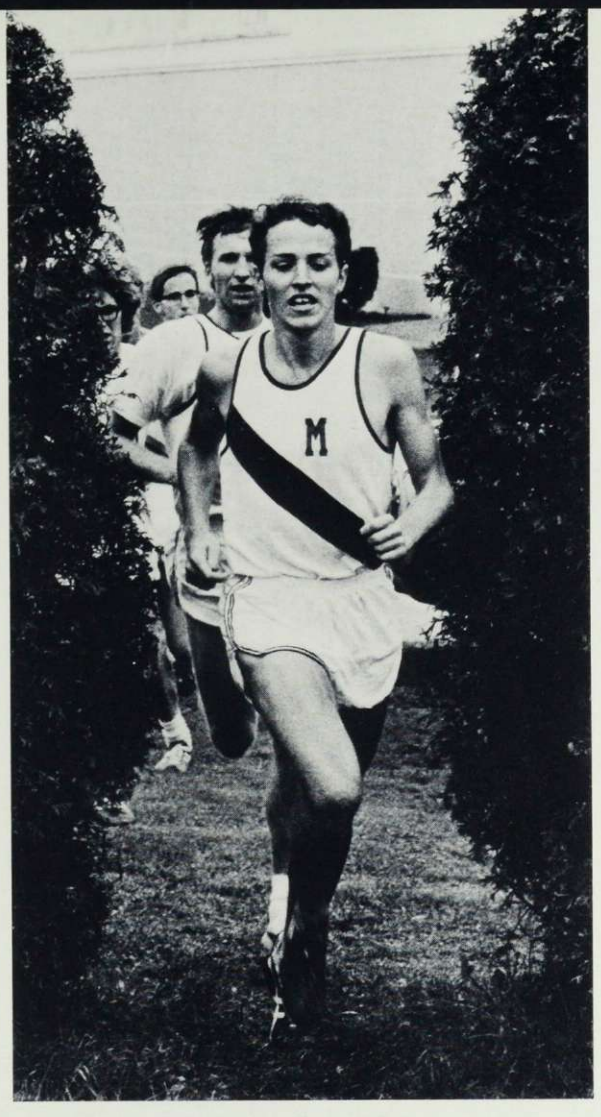
There is a great sense of working together to share in a feeling of mutual accomplishment. Every player must give, share, and care—or you will have a poor team and a rotten experience."

Richard Colman
The Campus, Oct. 7, 1971





M

"The people I have met in the time I have been here form the focus of my life.
I have woven deep personal relationships with others here
which are more meaningful than all else could be."

Jean Dornhoefer, '74

"Growing up happens to people in strange ways. Just at the time when we begin to form
such intimate relationships, we are also committed to a college education, to exposing our minds to various academic fields,
to molding our beings
into intelligent and thoughtful ones so that we may be prepared to choose how we want to live our lives."

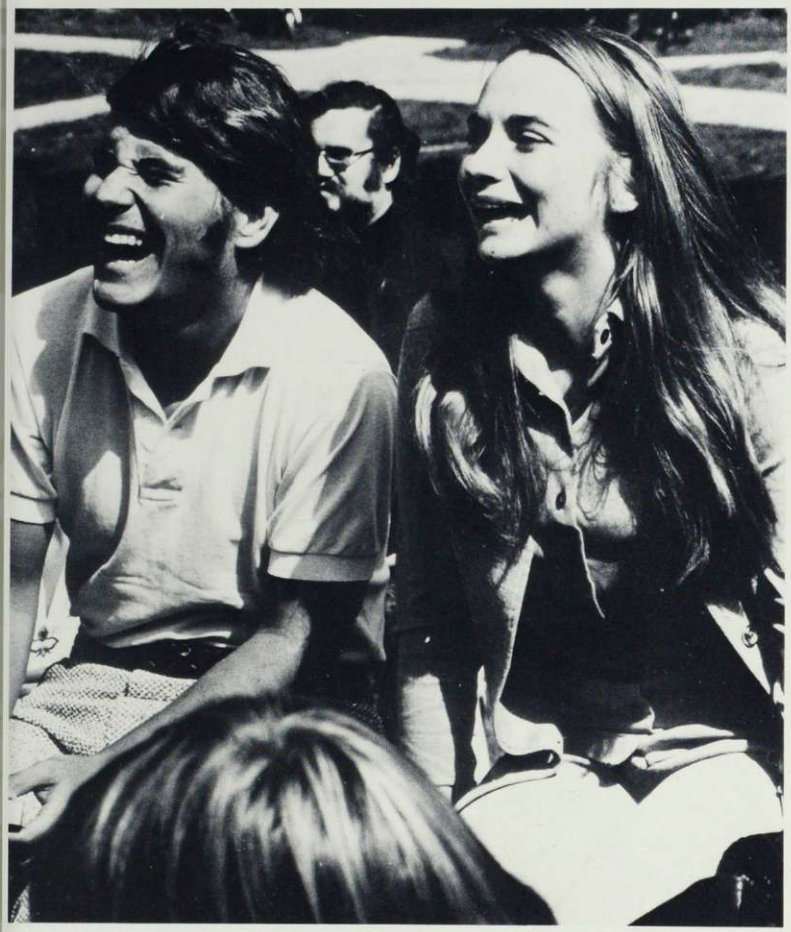
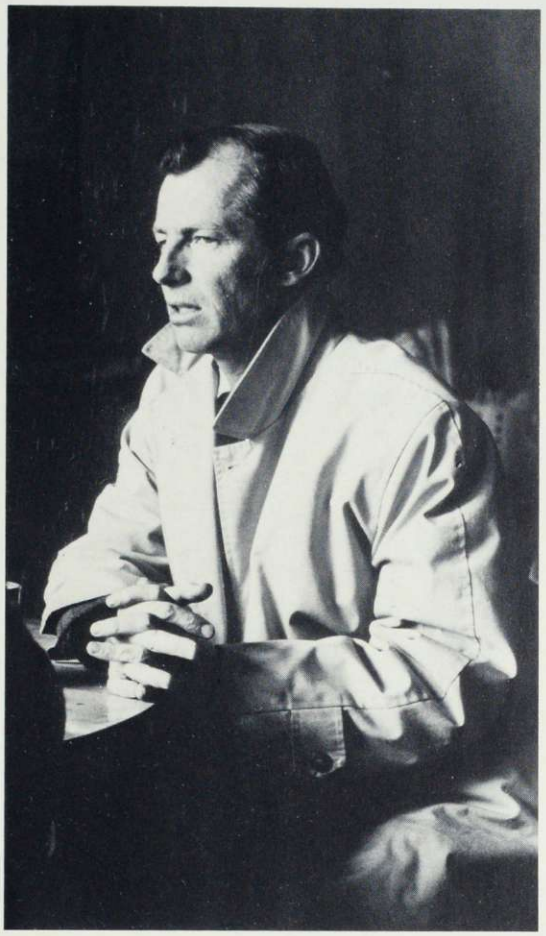
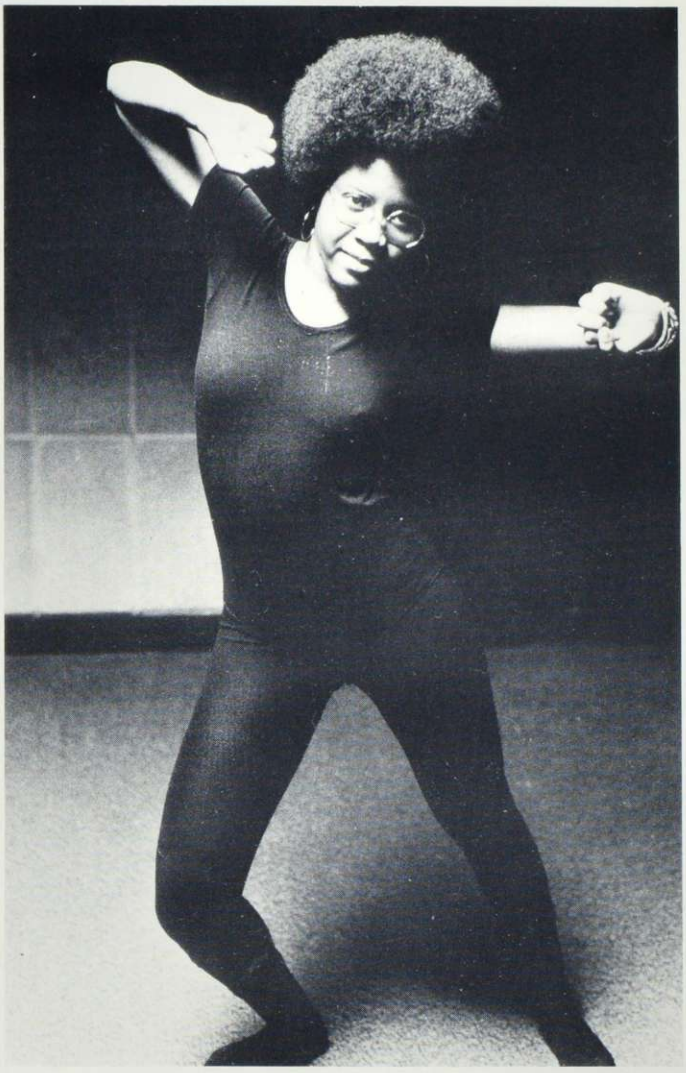
Dolly Hertz, '72
The Campus, Nov. 11, 1971





"This production represents a considerable amount of work, both on and off the stage. The efforts have been rewarding, in the creation and execution of an unusual approach to The Cherry Orchard, for those involved."

Alex Elson, '74 and Isabel Browne, '74
The Campus, Nov. 4, 1971



"This involvement is what maintains my sanity (I hope)
and makes me feel that I am
a part of the college.
Music allows me to be creative
and to express myself individualistically, as opposed to the mass expression demanded
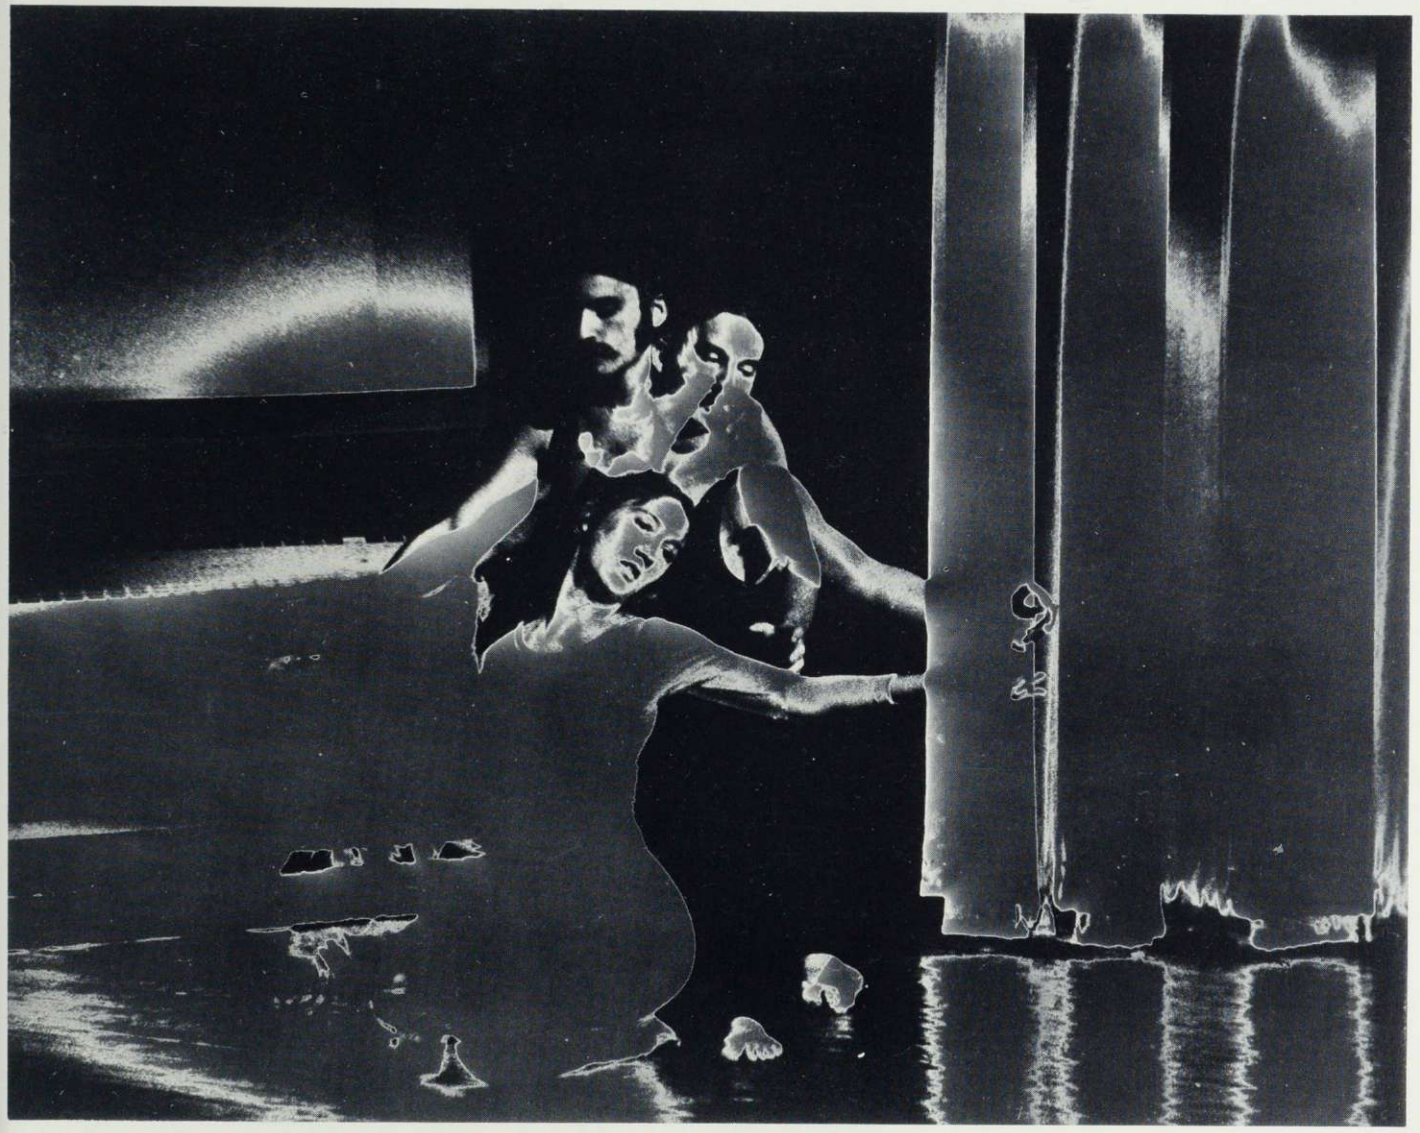
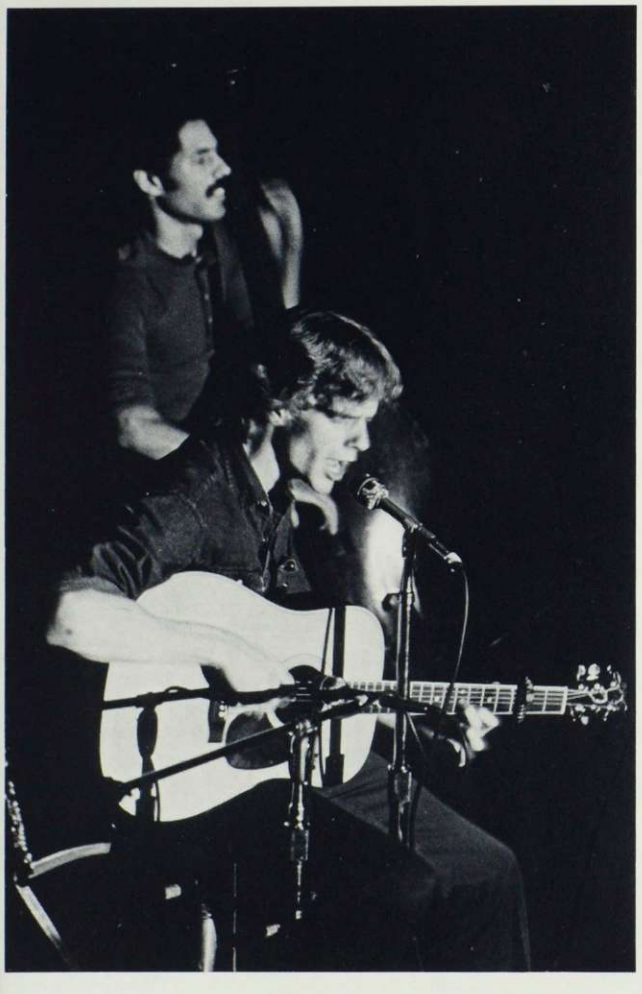
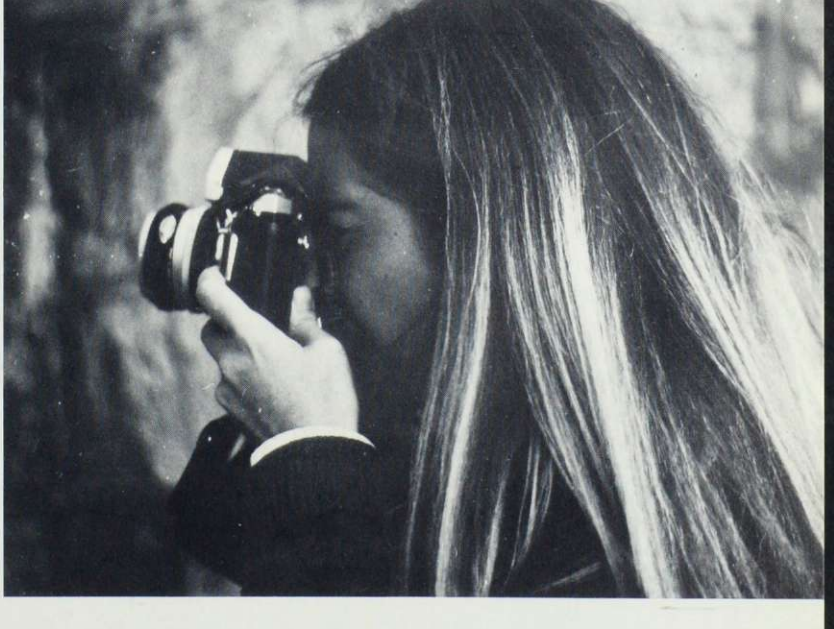
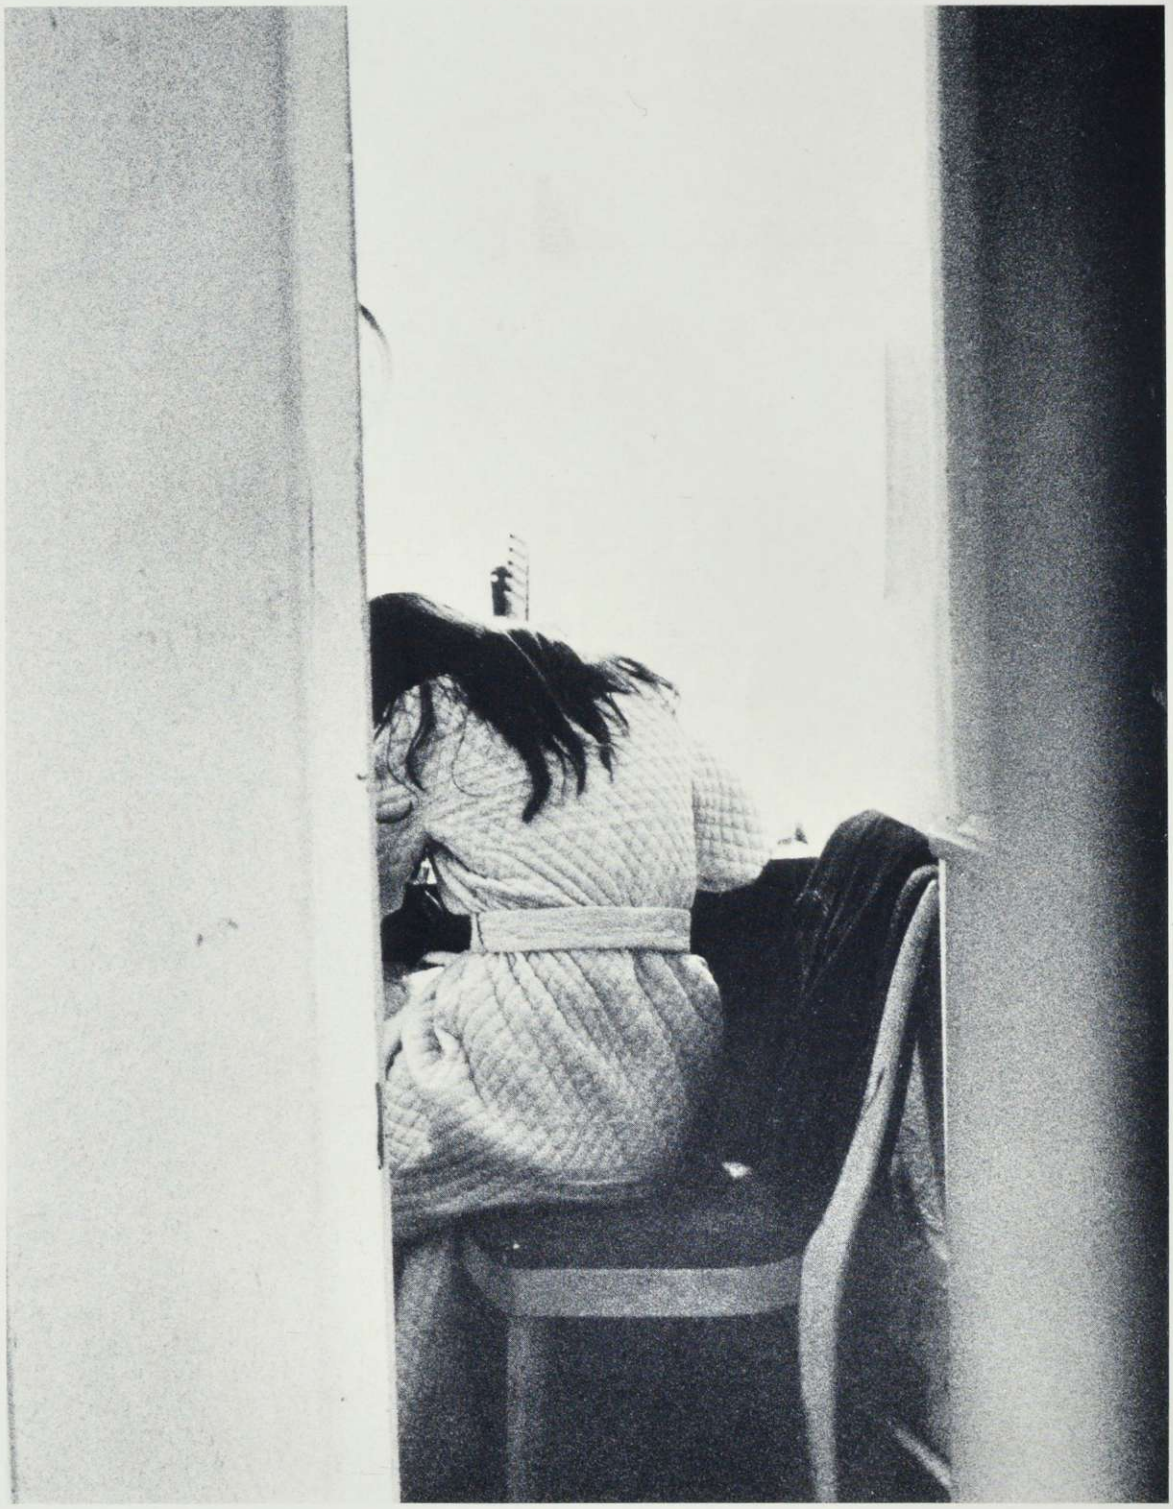
in class."

James Rugen,'74







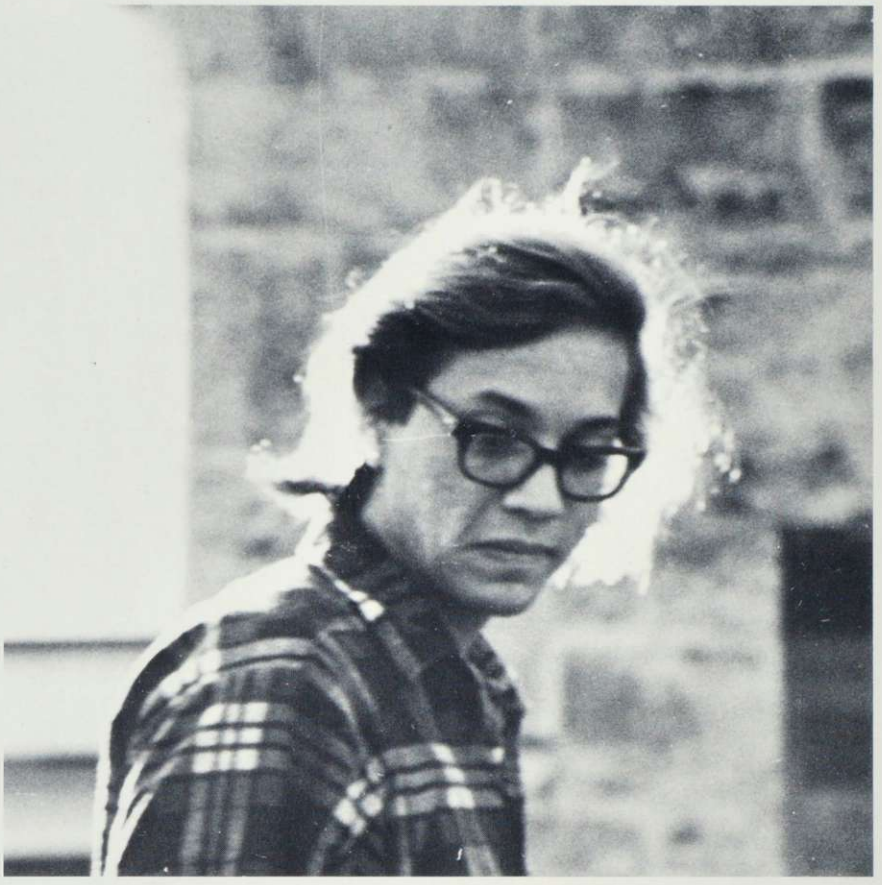


"Middlebury is in many ways to me a cold, unfeeling, and trite place. I'd like to see more true emotion for other people, and less conscious display of it."

Rick Eldridge, '75

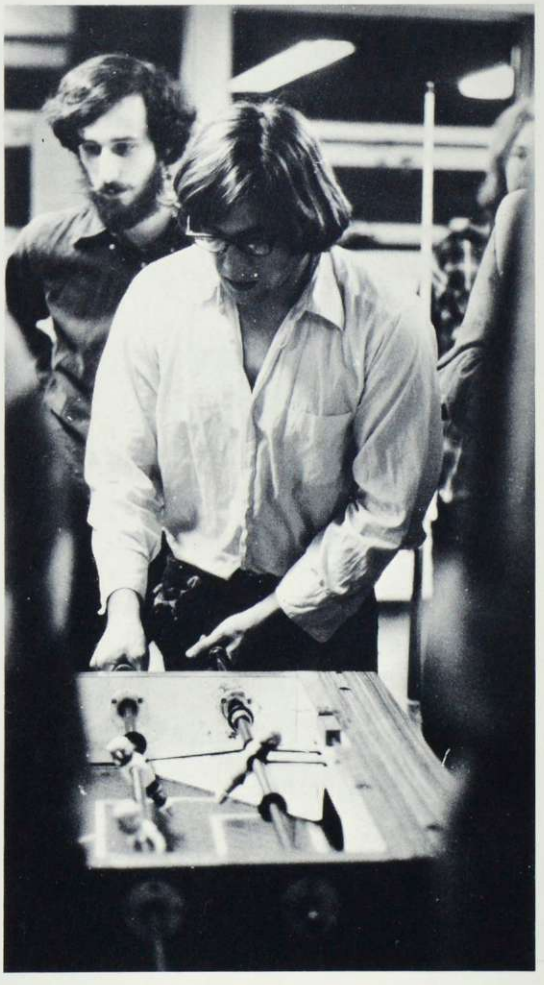
"As long as there are two people talking together, you know, there isn't real isolation. And the very fact that two people are engaged in trying to express things to one another means that it's not only ideas that are taking place but emotions are taking place as well."

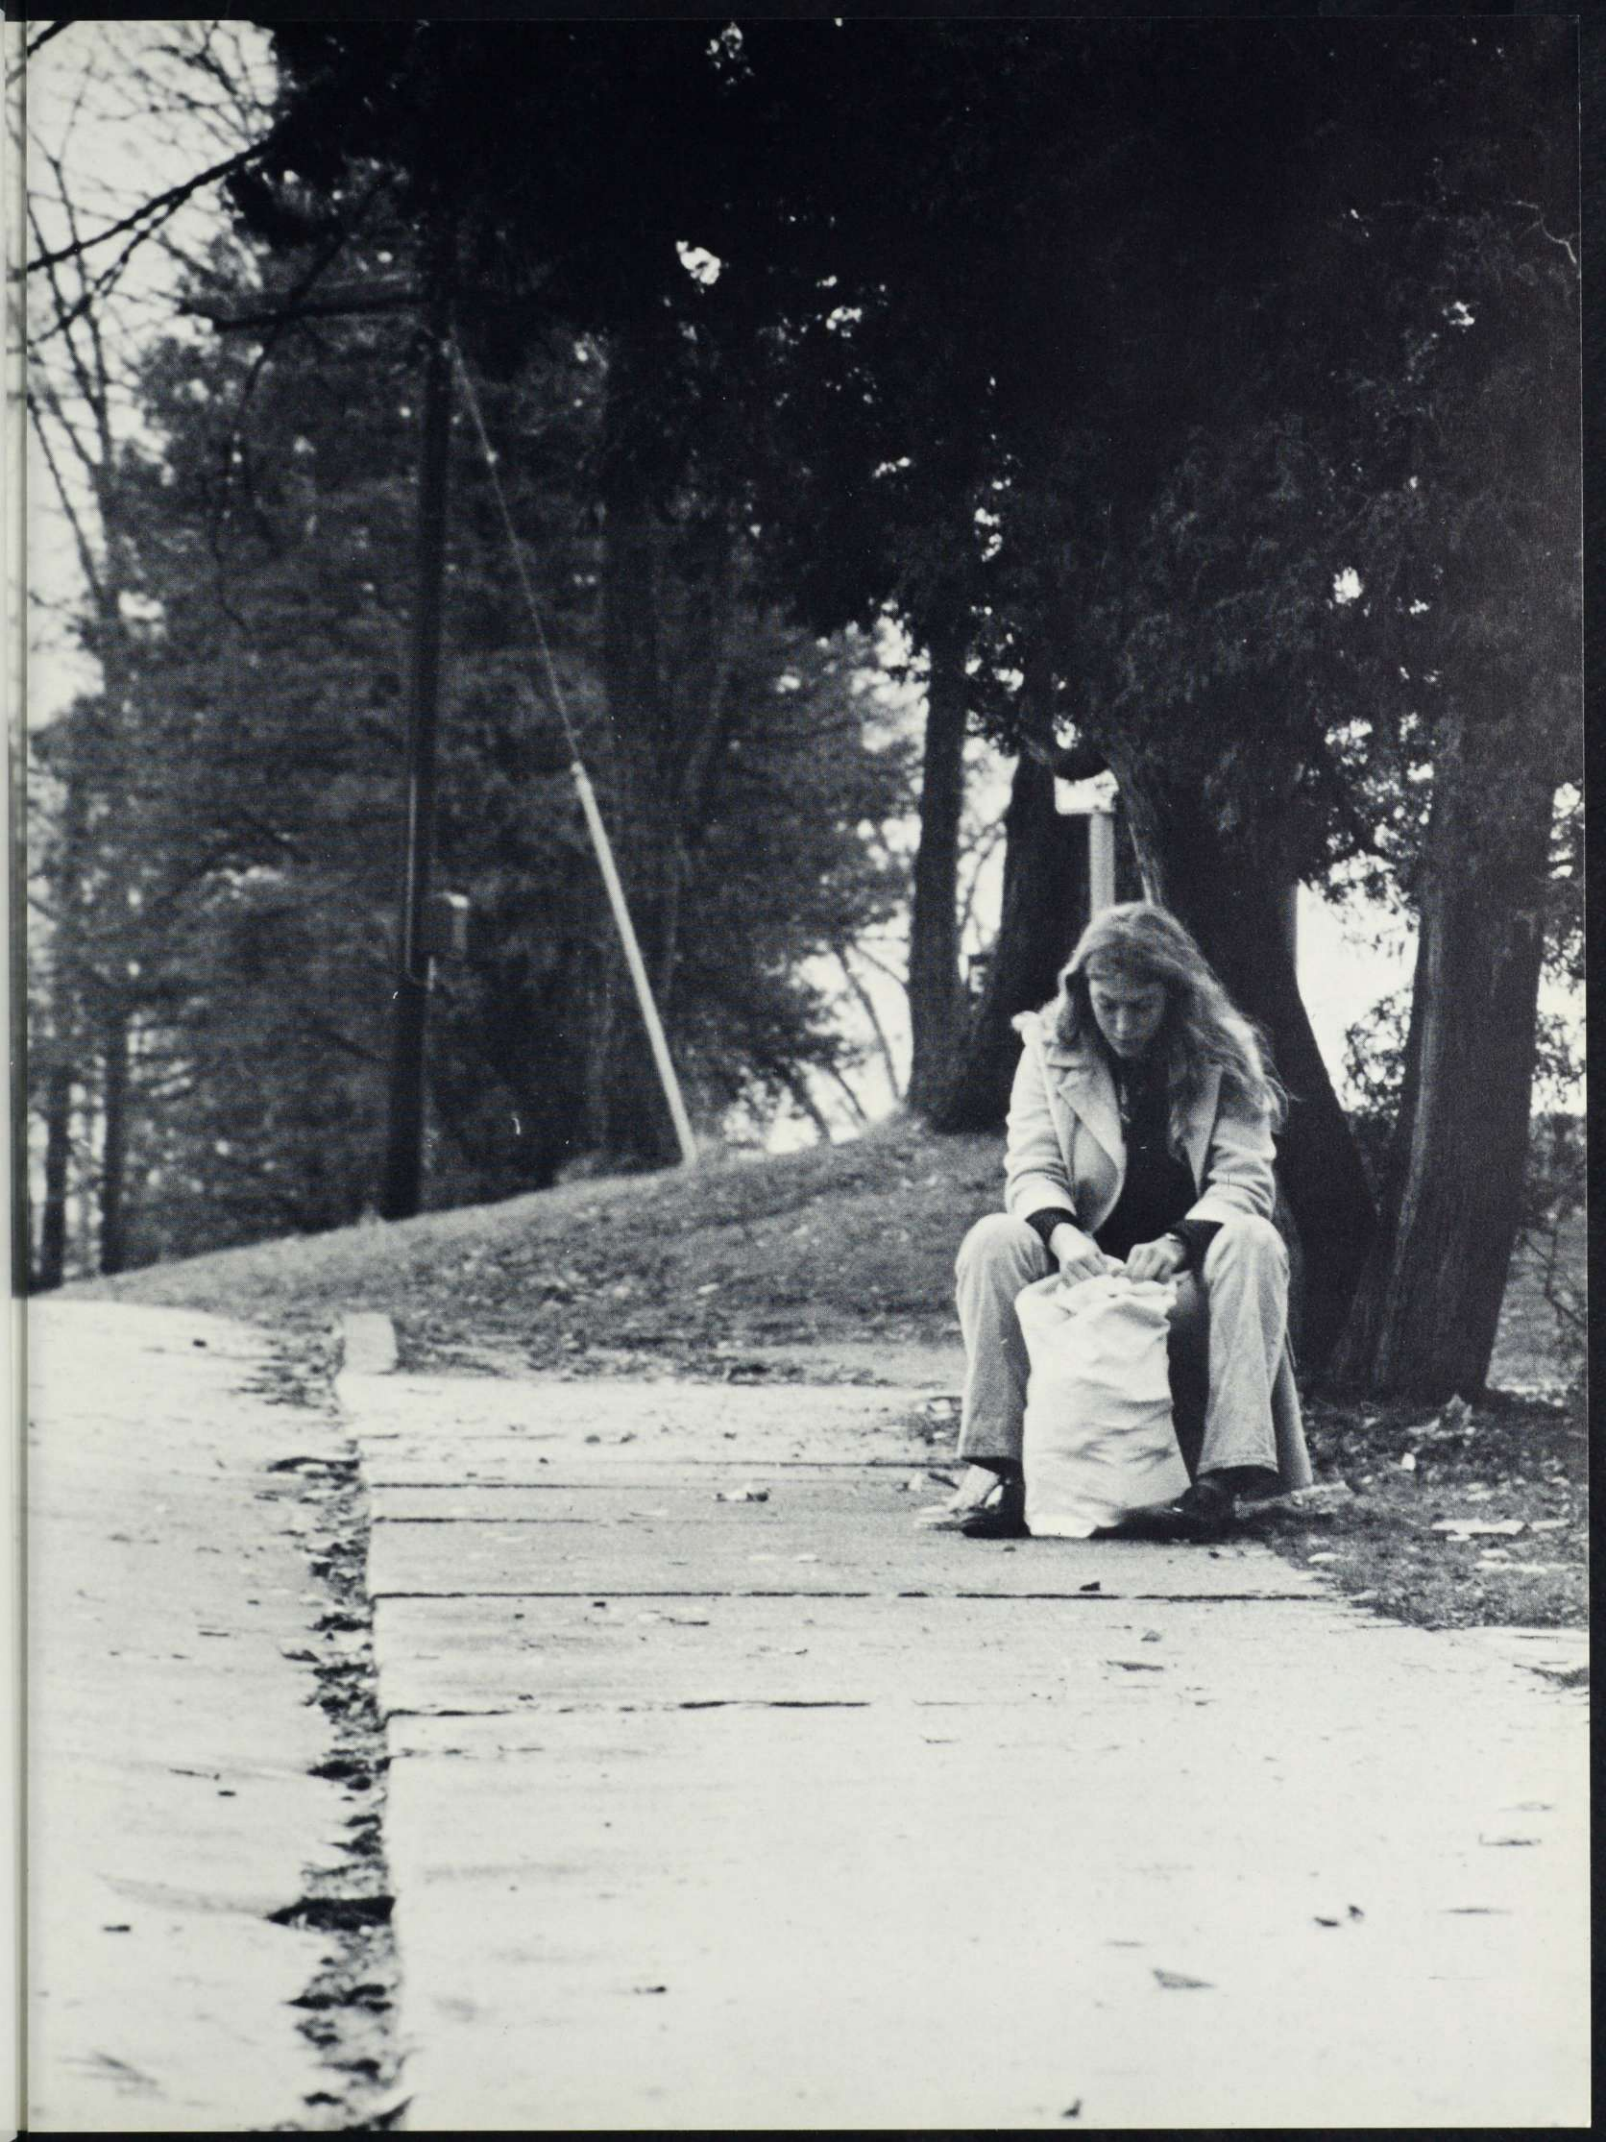
Robert Pack

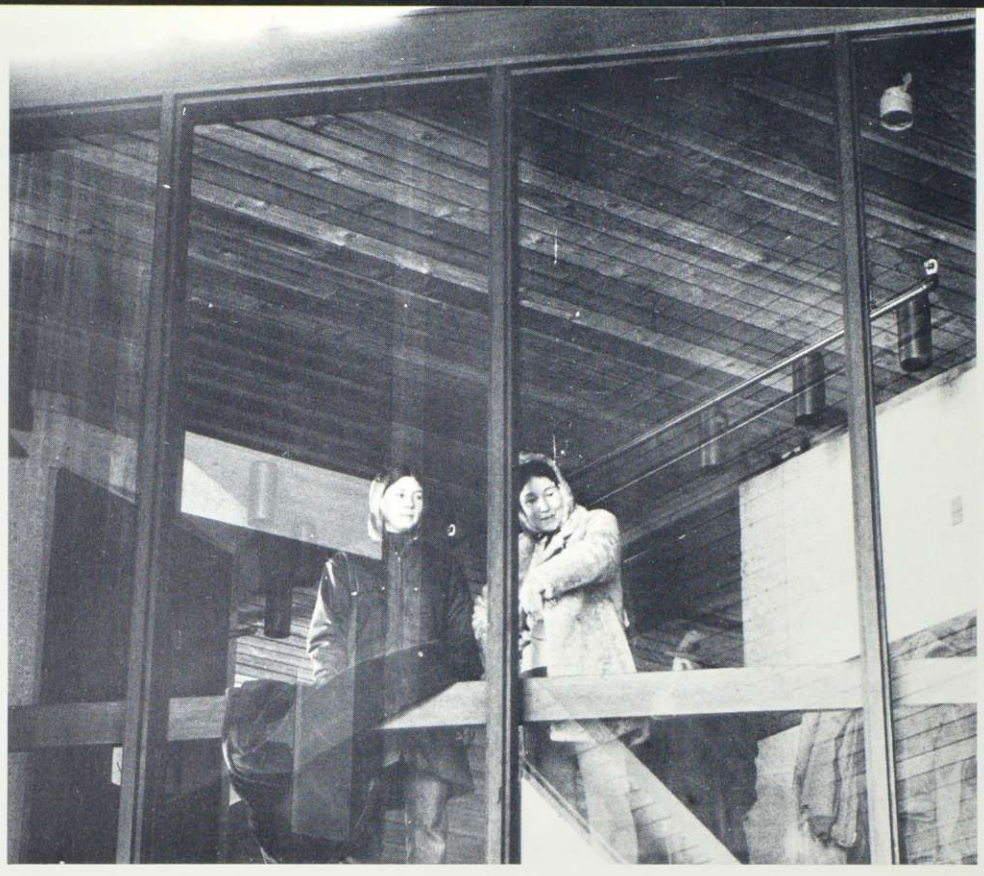


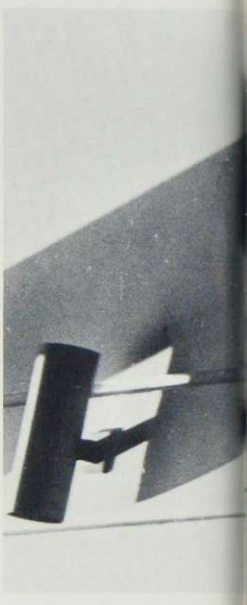
"Middlebury has changed considerably in the three years I've been here; it is no longer a strict traditional liberal arts college. The potential for personal fulfillment has vastly enlarged, yet in actuality many people are bored."

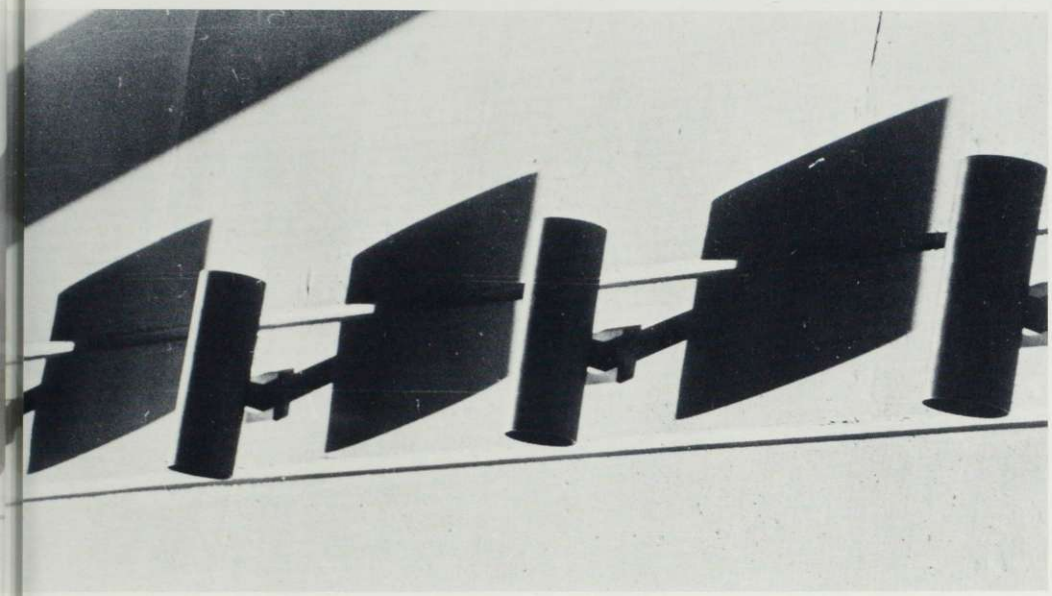
Ron Johansson, '72











"Everyone should have something to remind them that Middlebury is not the center of the universe, that life elsewhere doesn't always tie into the neat little theories that seem so clever in the classroom."

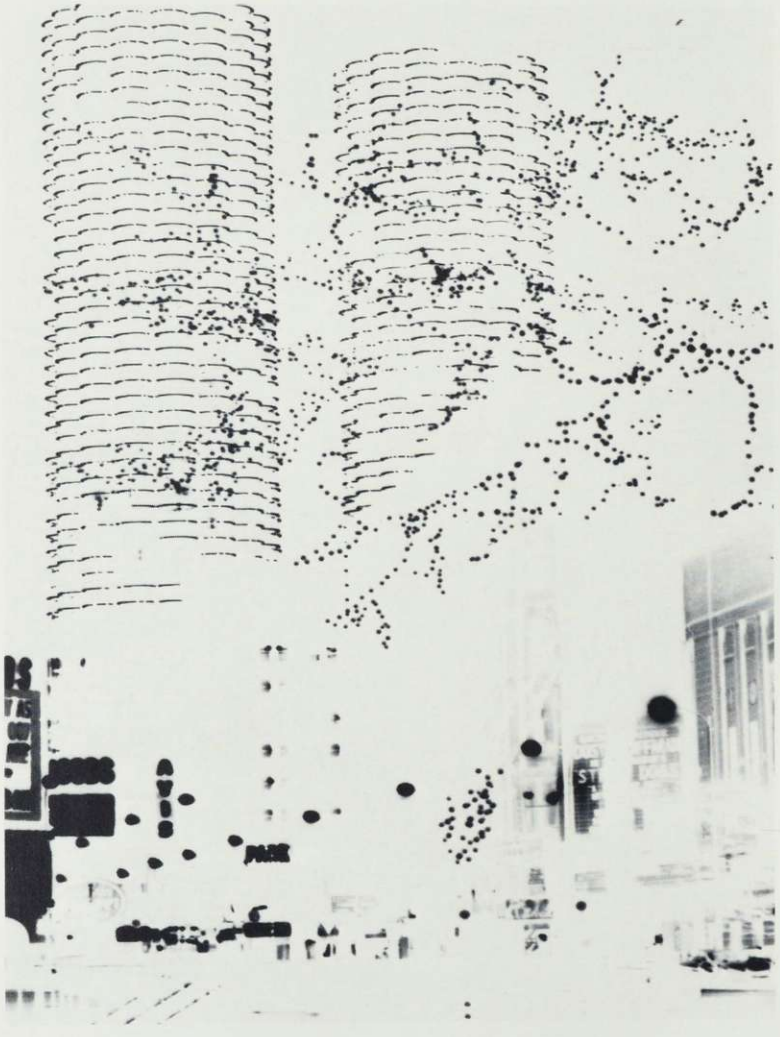
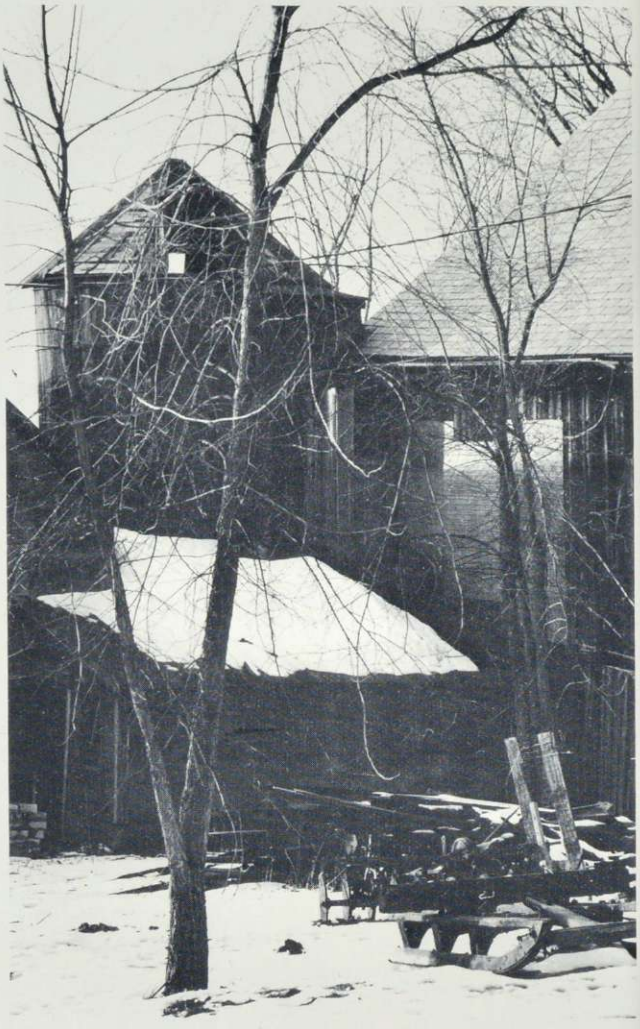
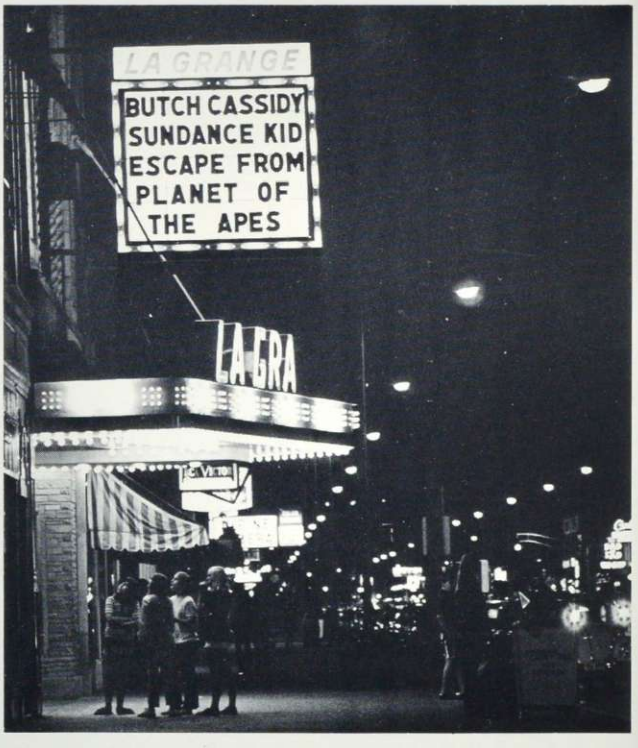
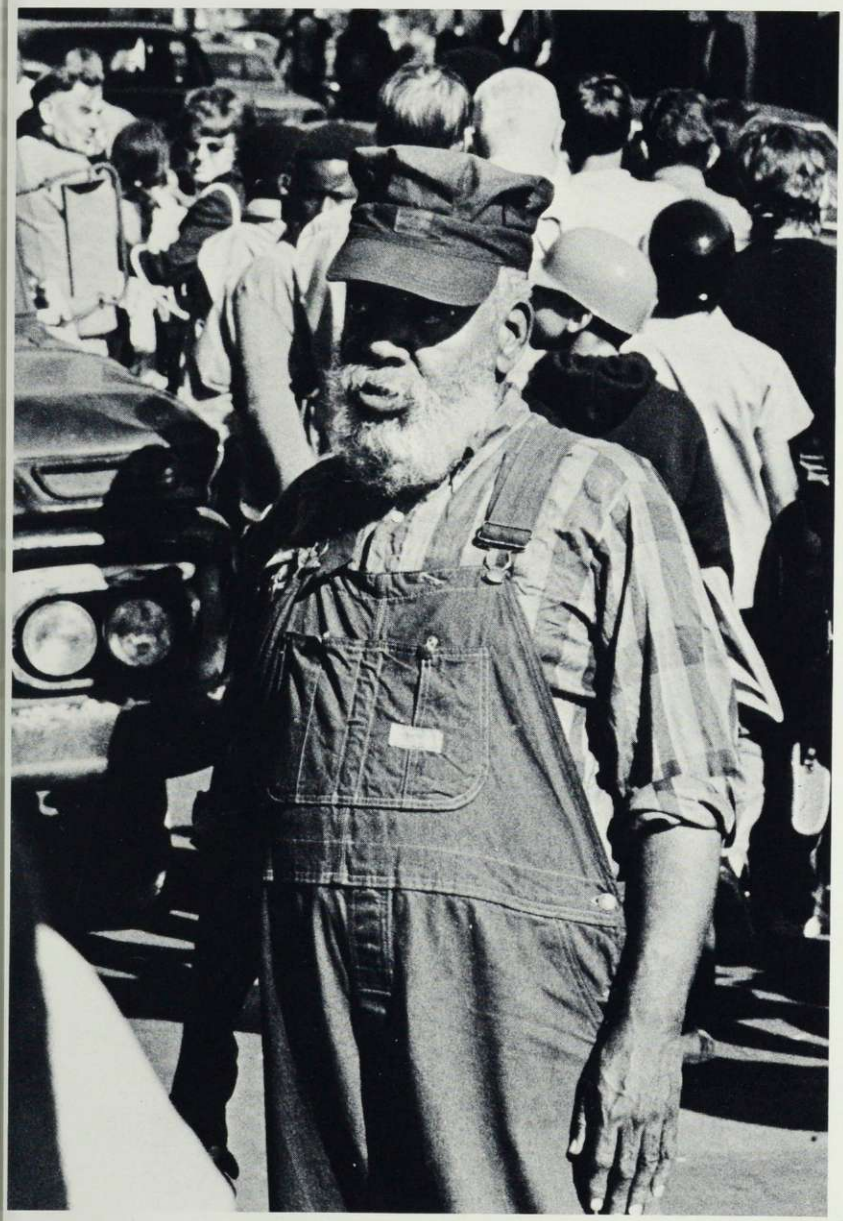
James Morone, '73









"I feel it is necessary to inject something extra-Middlebury into Middlebury, if only to achieve the perspective that Vermont, and this college, and we,
exist in a heck of a lot larger world than Vermont, and this college, and us."

Guy Kettlehack, '73

"Middlebury moves one toward creativity in funny ways;
when the classroom is boring,
the land outside is inspiring;
when the snow is too deep to understand,
the warmth and energy of the classroom stimulates instead."

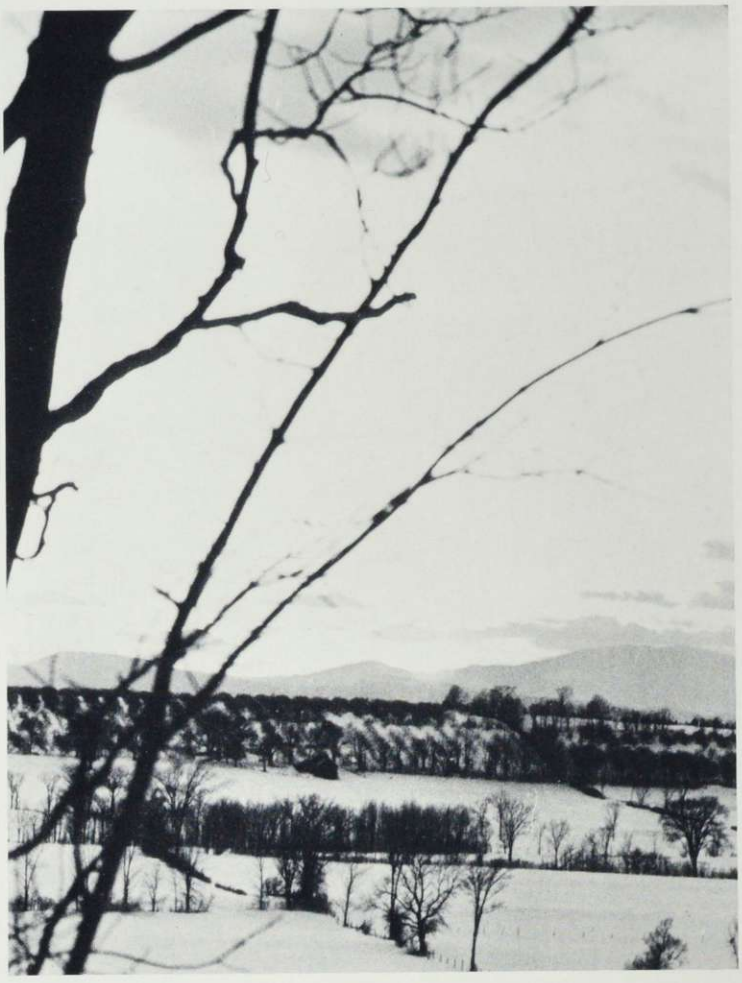
Tori Osborn, '72



"Enter McCallum and Company. With some artful penalty killing, Everett worked the puck the length of the ice, helped by Jim Hurd. From behind the UVM net, Everett flipped the puck out to a welcoming McCallum. McCallum slithered the puck by an outstretched Steve Eckerson for a 1-0 Panther edge!"

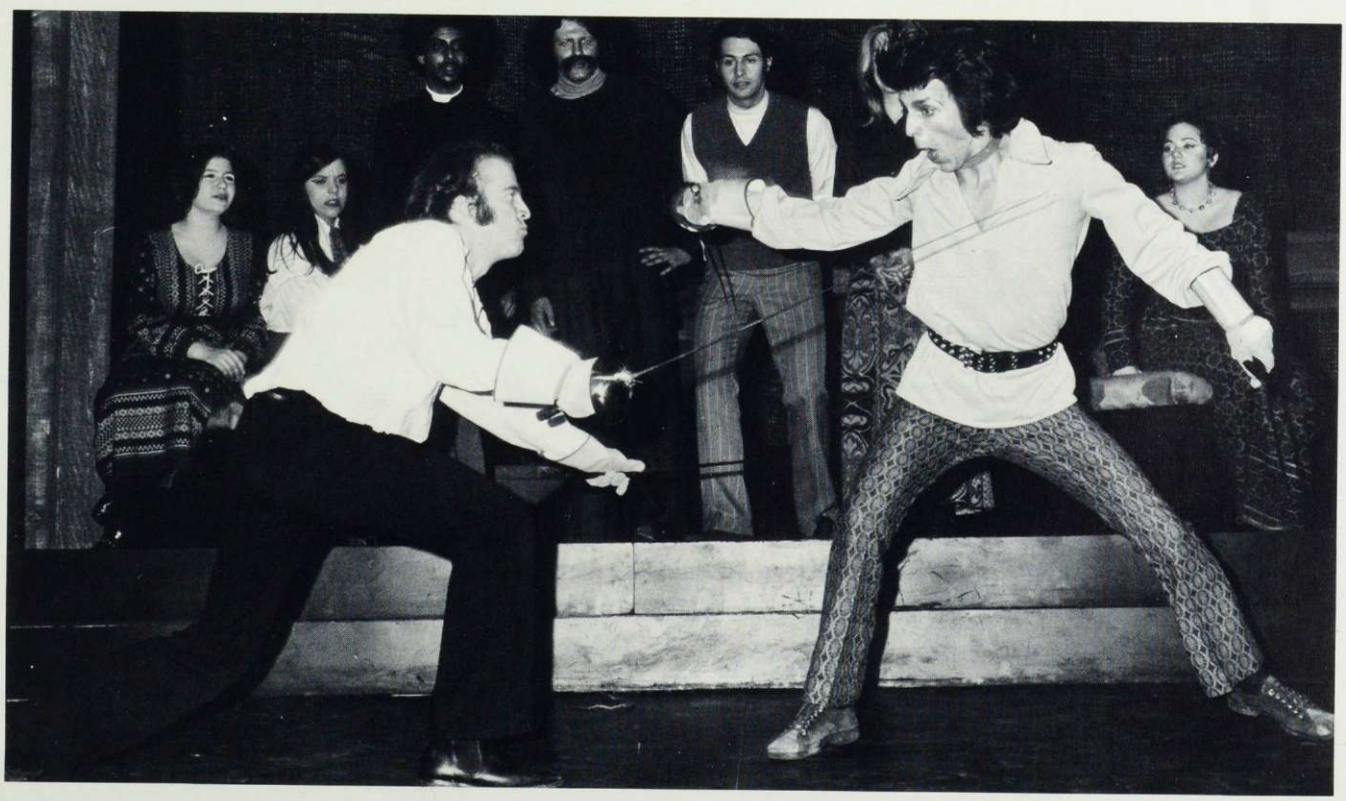
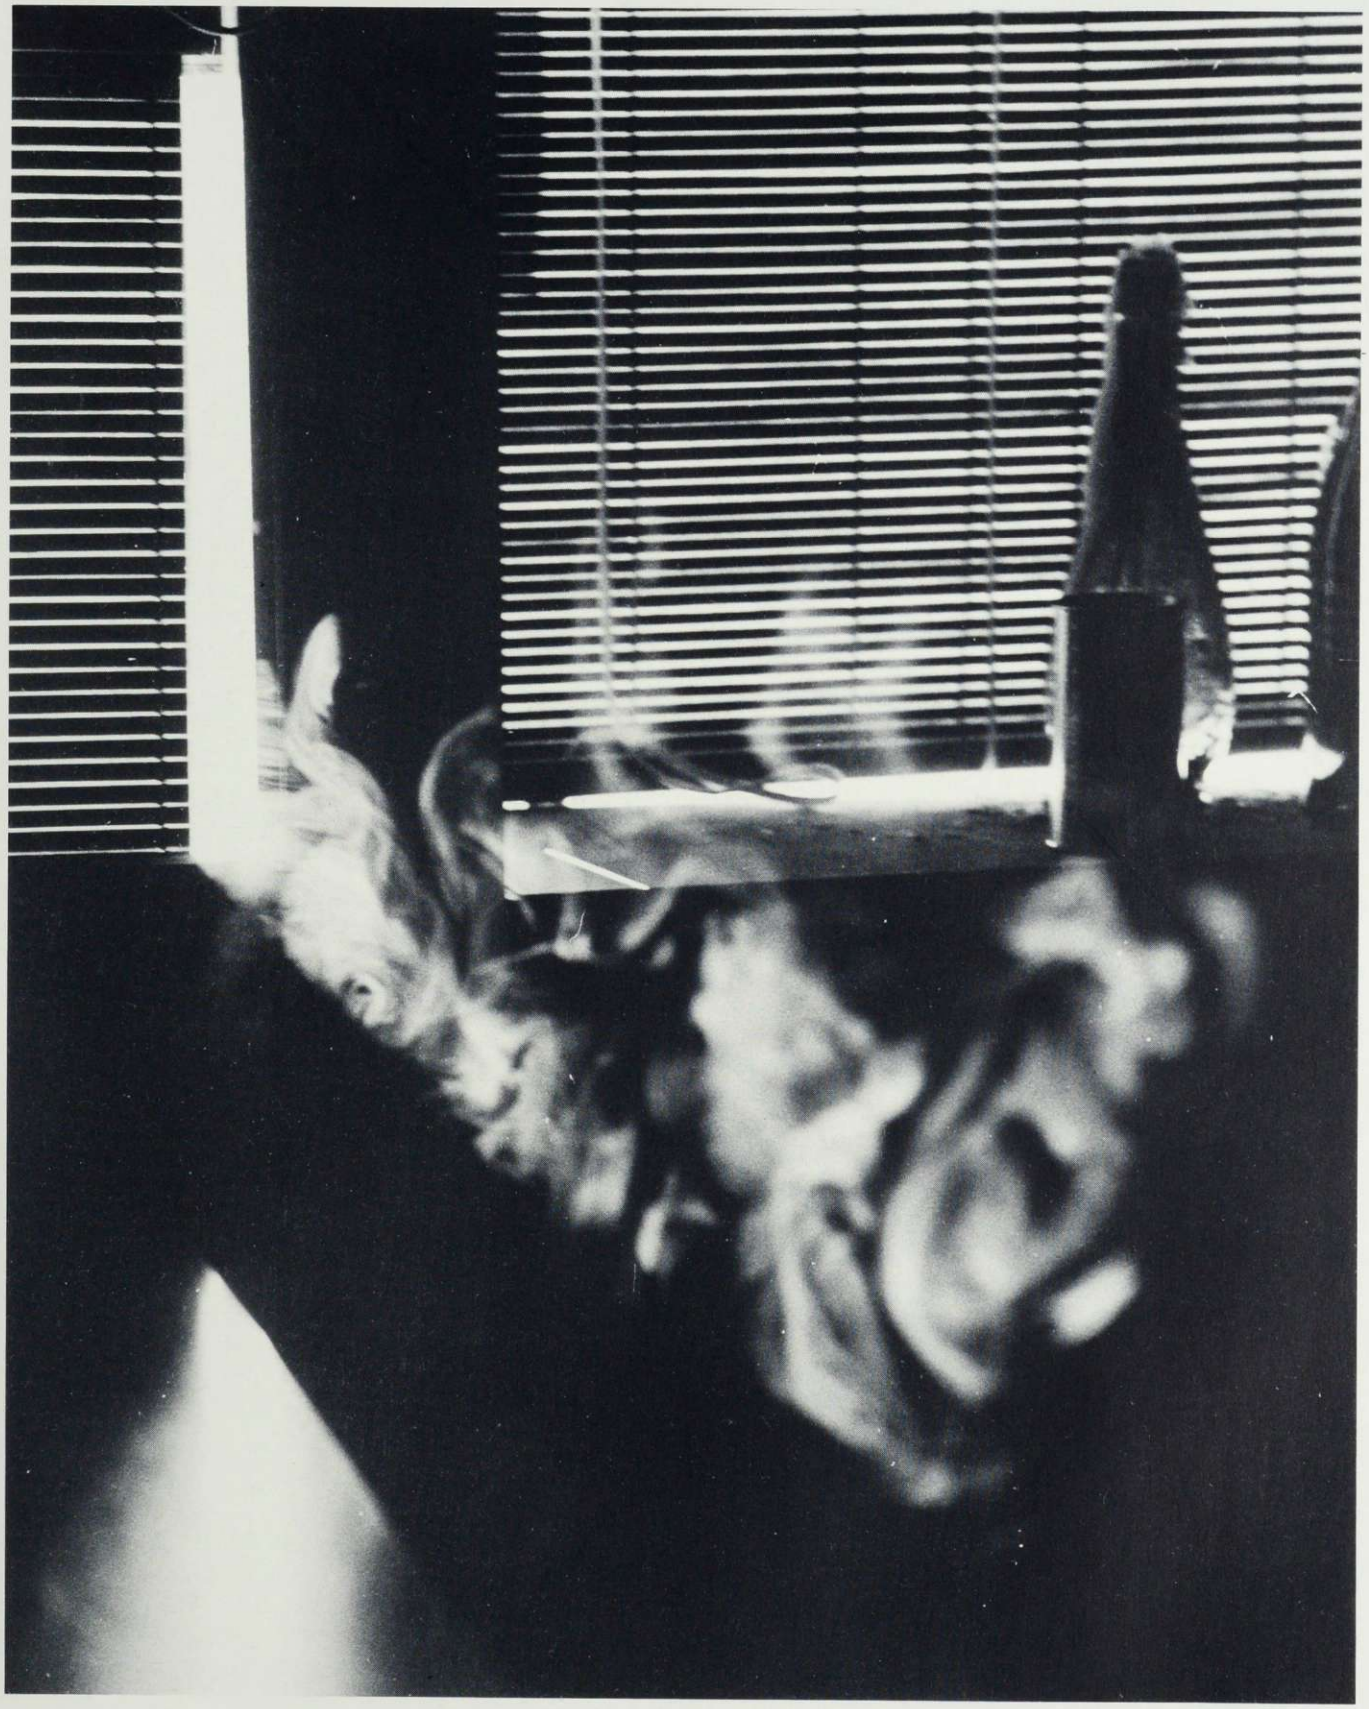
". . . the Panther Ski Team confidently strapped on their sophisticated barrel staves and snowballed an 8.35 lead into a victory over number two UVM . . . Most daring of the events, the jump ended the meet and sewed up Midd's victory."

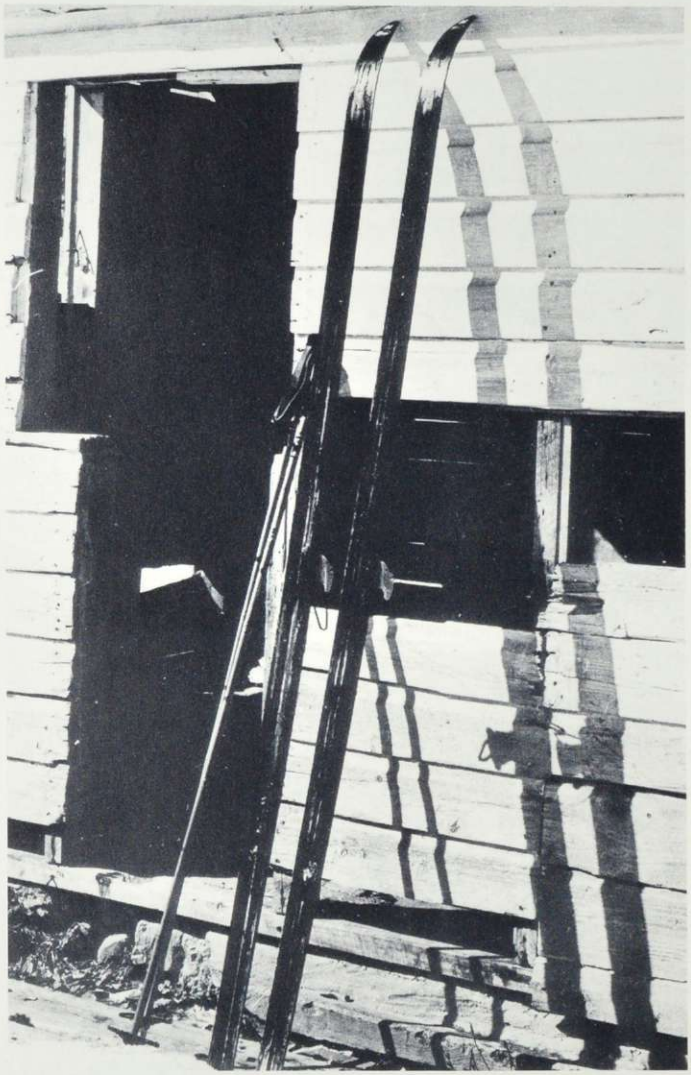
The Campus, March 2, 1972

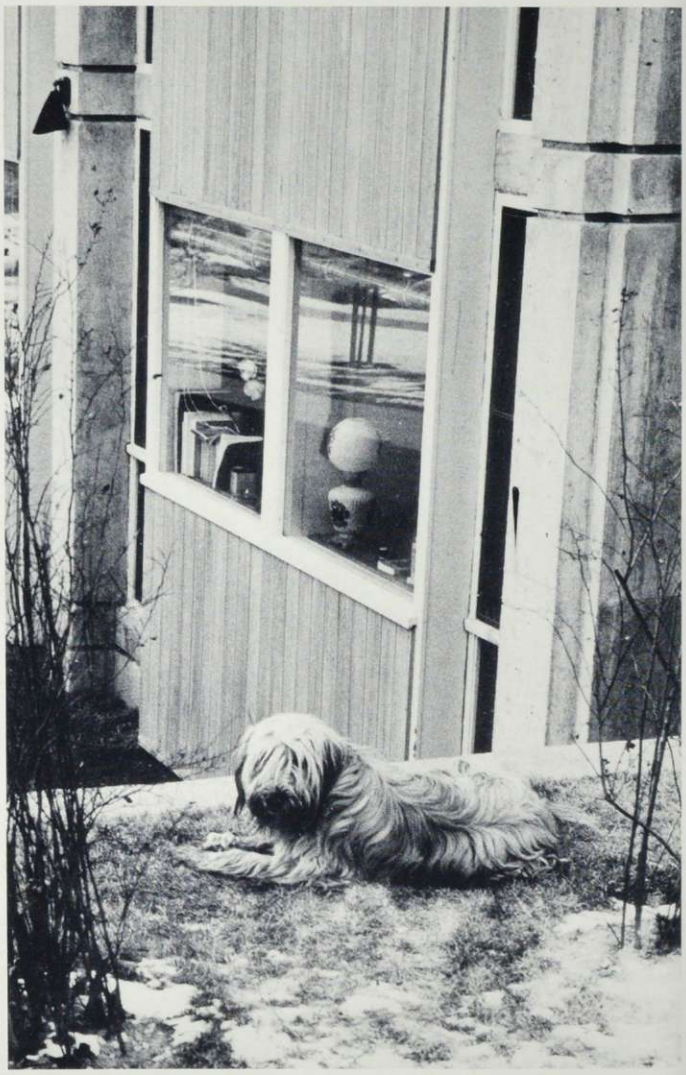
"Acting demands more than simply the confidence to present oneself before an audience or the technical ability to indicate such things as process of thought or spontaneous reaction to lines that one has learned to expect and depend on for weeks."

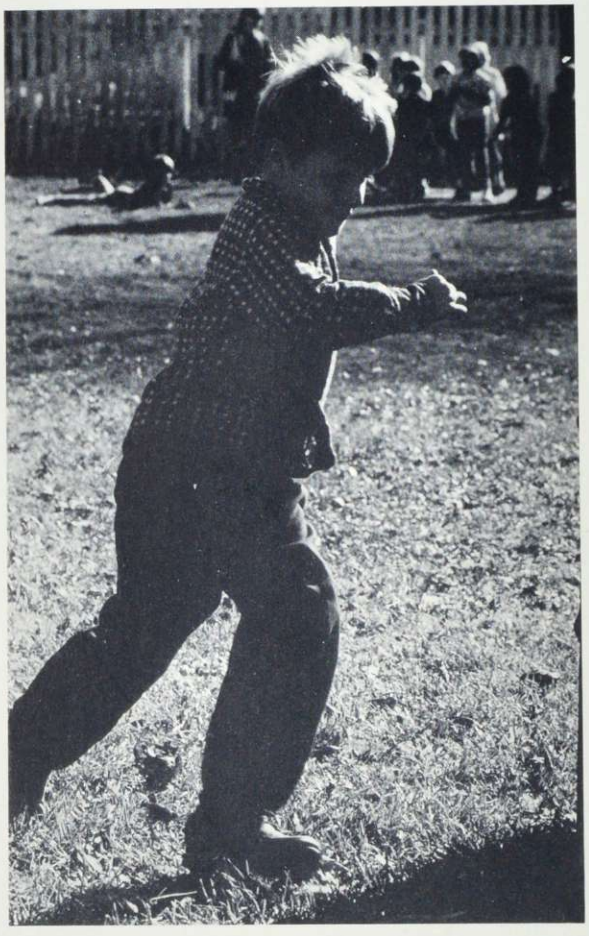
John Martinuzzi, '72
The Campus, Jan. 28, 1972

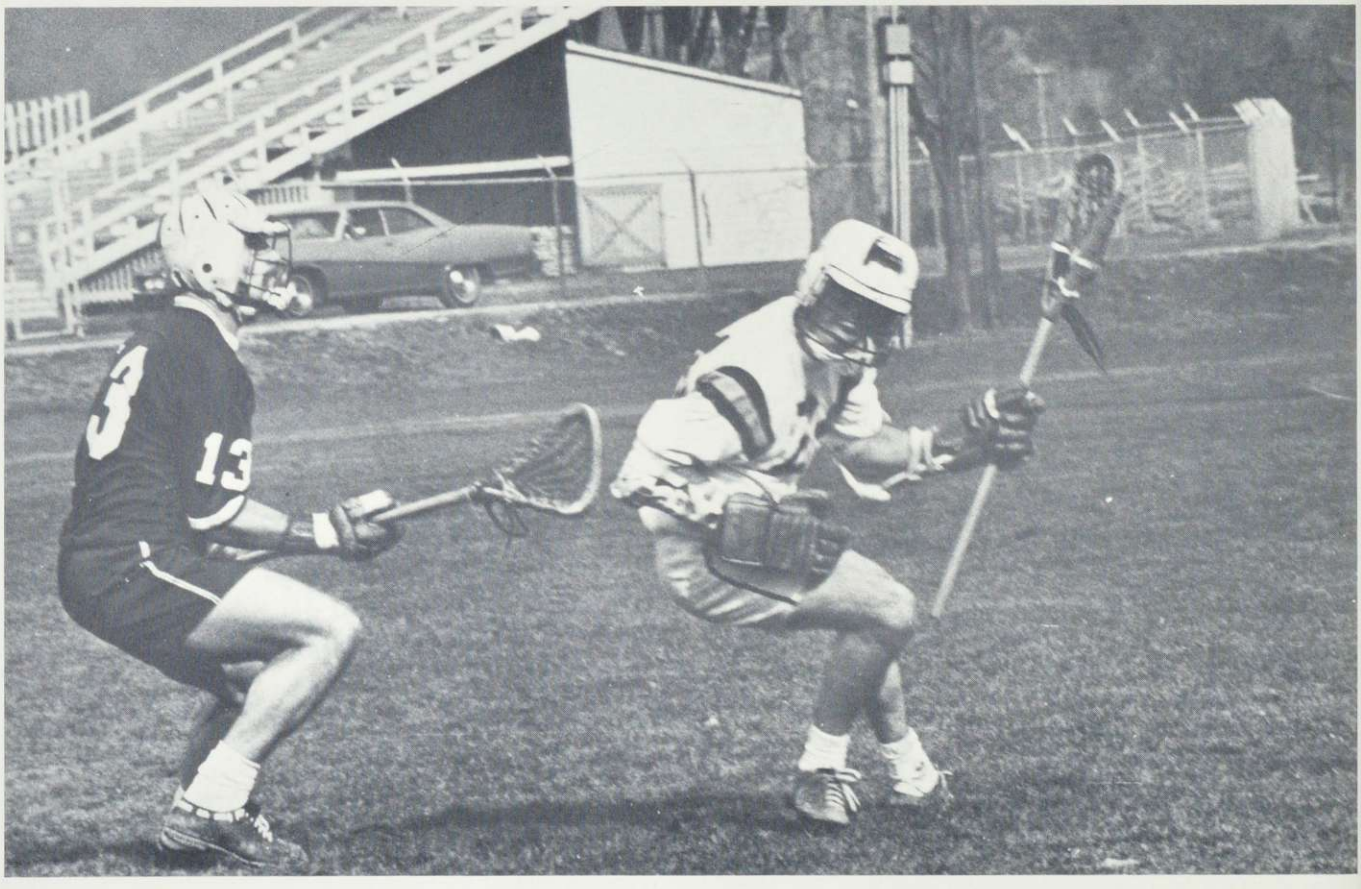




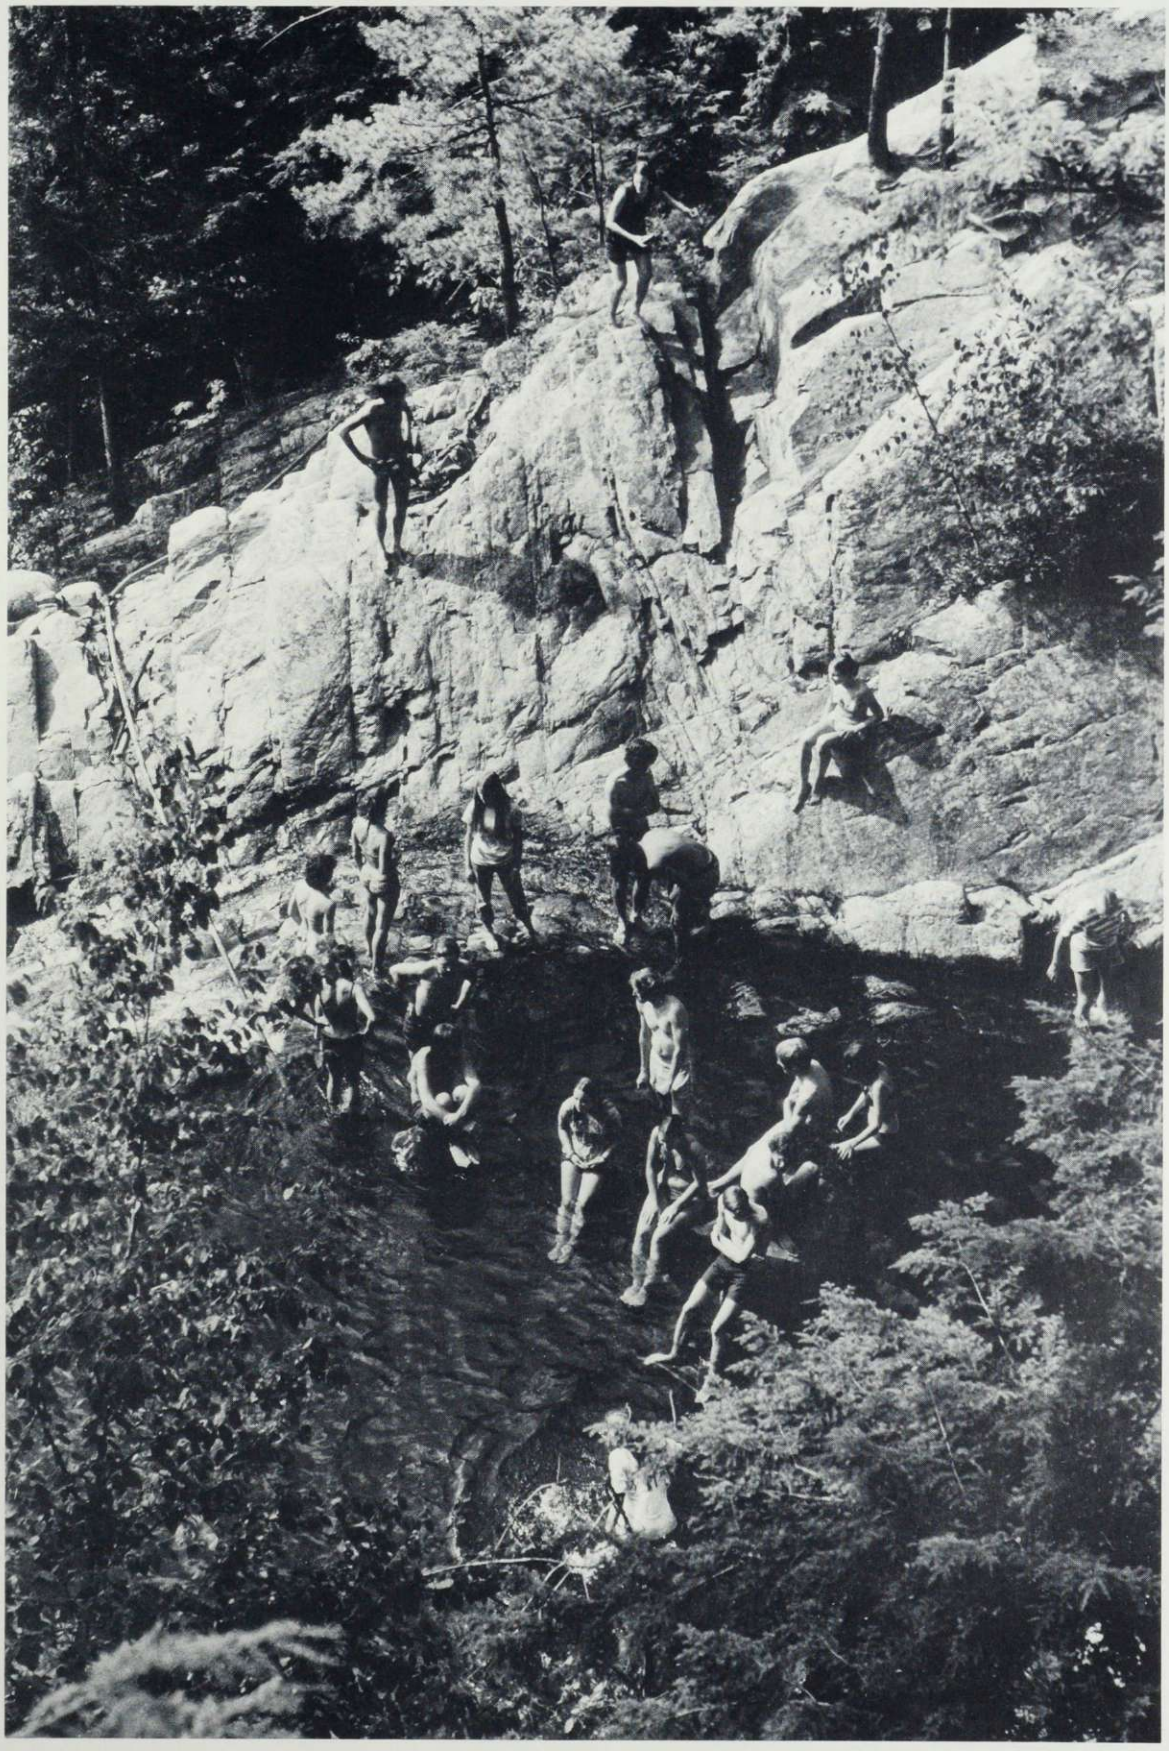


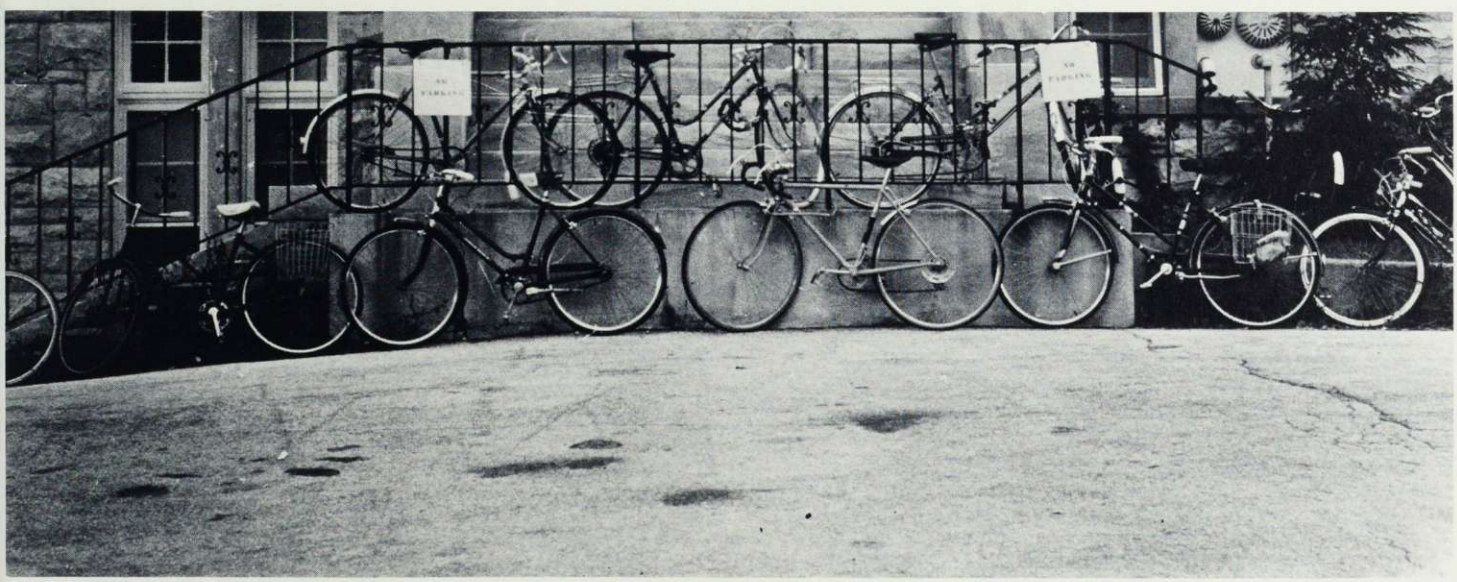






13





"Achieving high honors or making the Dean's List is not my primary goal. Pursuing extra-curricular activities and relating to other human beings is much more important."

Dick Leavitt, '75

"What really dismays me is the existence of a situation which I find far too commonplace at Middlebury. That is,
the college is not responding to the desires and needs of the students."

Page Dabney, '73
The Campus, Nov. 4, 1971

"I have found Middlebury intellectually stimulating because,
in pure and simple terms,
I want Middlebury to be such a place.
Having come to Middlebury in search of diversity in academic, as well as extra-curricular, experiences,
I have never found Middlebury to be lacking in sources of intellectual stimulation."

Cynthia Bear, '73

". . . Taking advantage of structured learning
and enjoying it . . .
I feel good using the learning facilities of a college community
to add to the make-up of me."

Betsy Coquillard, '72

". . . the college is not offering a truly contemporary education,
in tune with
the needs and aspirations
of its students."

Bernard Wesson, '72

"Academics has represented
the area of my self-confidence, the area in which I have devoted
most of my time and energy,
often to an excessive degree."

Mike Reed, '72
